Significance of Academic Regalia

ORIGINS

The origins of academic dress date back to the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The ordinary dress of the scholar, whether student or teacher, was the dress of a cleric.Long gowns were worn and may have been necessary for warmth in unheated buildings. A statute of the University of Coimbra in 1321 required that all "Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors" wear gowns. In England, in the second half of the fourteenth century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade "excess in apparel" and prescribed the wearing of a long gown. In the days of Henry VIII of England, Oxford and Cambridge first began prescribing a definite academic dress. The assignment of colors to signify certain faculties was to be a much later development—in the late nineteenth century—and one that was to be standardized only in the United States. European institutions have always had great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. In contrast, American colleges and universities opted for a definite system that all might follow. The American Council on Education periodically reviews and updates the code for academic costumes for American universities.

COLORS

Gowns for the bachelor's or master's degree are untrimmed. For the doctor's degree, the gown is faced down the front with black velvet; three bars of velvet are used across the sleeves. These facings or crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive of the discipline to which the degree pertains. Red, one of the traditional colors of the church, went to theology. Green, the color of medieval herbs, was adopted for medicine; and olive, because it was so close to green, was given to pharmacy. Golden yellow, standing for the wealth that scientific research has produced, was assigned to the sciences.

The hoods are lined with the official color or colors of the college or university conferring the degree; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways. The color of the binding or edging of the hood indicates the subject to which the degree pertains.

The colors associated with the different disciplines are as follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Business	Brown
Dentistry	Lilac
Education	Light Blue
Law	Purple
Library Science, Information Management	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Nursing	Apricot
Pharmacy C	live Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Physical Therapy	Teal
Public Health
Science Gold	den Yellow
Social Work	Citron
Theology	Scarlet

University History Highlights

Loma Linda University is part of the Seventh-day Adventist system of higher education that adheres to and promotes its vision—"Transforming lives through education, health care, and research"—and its motto— "To make man whole."

Loma Linda University traces its beginnings back to 1905, when—through a series of divine providences the University, starting as a nurses' training school, was founded at Loma Linda, California, by the Seventhday Adventist Church. The School of Nursing began in 1905. In 1909, the College of Medical Evangelists received its charter as a medical school with the express purpose of preparing physicians who could meet the needs of the whole person. Both schools emphasized the need for healthful living as a part of medical care—a revolutionary concept in 1905.

The University has steadily expanded its programs to meet the demands of a global environment. The original schools—Nursing and Medicine—have been joined by the Schools of Allied Health Professions, Behavioral Health, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Public Health, and Religion; and the Faculty of Graduate Studies. All the school programs are accredited by their respective accrediting bodies.

Charles demonstrated his keen scientific aptitude in his undergraduate studies at Columbia Union College, where he studied physics and math and pursued music as well. Following his graduation from MIT, he pursued a distinguished career in experimental physics in two of the top National Laboratories in the United States, finally achieving one of the highest positions in the field, the director of the Los Alamos National Laboratory. Under his leadership, the Laboratory continued to innovate new techniques and tools to ensure that this nation's deterrent remained safe, reliable, and effective. In retirement, Dr. McMillan continues to serve the national security enterprise on various boards and review committees.

He is passionate about promoting interest and excellence in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) education in cultivating the talent necessary to sustaining that role in the future. This has led him to be a valued instructor in Loma Linda's EXSEED program to enhance STEM education by primary and secondary school teachers.

An accomplished musician, he plays piano, organ, and recorder. He finds joy in playing great organs in Europe and studying their history. He has a wide range of interests and a deep curiosity that make him a fascinating conversationalist. He resides in Los Alamos, with his wife Janet, with whom he reared three children.

Lewis G. Zirkle, MD-Meritorious Service Award (2020-2021)

M.D. Duke University School of Medicine 1966

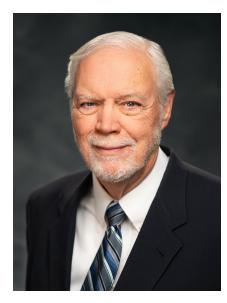

Dr. Lewis G. Zirkle has revolutionized the care of long bone fractures worldwide. The SIGN nail system he developed is not only an innovative top-quality implant, but includes a system for accountability, quality control and replenishing of supplies. This has changed the lives of thousands of people around the world, especially in locations where access to care is extremely limited.

The intramedullary rod and screw system developed by Dr. Zirkle for resource depleted countries is Food and Drug Administration approved, affordable, and most importantly, easy to use and highly effective. The results are almost immediate when compared to recovery with conventional orthopedic repairs done with plates and screws. It often allows patients to walk out of the hospital the day after surgery rather than waiting for weeks for the bones to heal.

Loma Linda University and Adventist Health International have now implemented the SIGN system for long bone fractures at multiple hospitals throughout developing countries, including in war-torn Afghanistan and Haiti after the 2010 earthquake. Dr. Zirkle's tireless efforts to assist patients without means to regain their health and productivity has blessed thousands. Using the SIGN System, 7,000 local orthopedic surgeons have treated more than 350,000 patients in low- and middle-income countries.

For his revolutionary and innovative contributions in service to humankind, and practice of medicine that aligns with this institution's motto – "To Make Man Whole," Loma Linda University Health is pleased to recognize Dr. Lewis G. Zirkle with the 2020-2021 MERITORIOUS SERVICE AWARD.

Ella Hasso Haddad—Distinguished Academic Award (2020-2021)

Emerita Professor, School of Public Health, Loma Linda University

B.S. La Sierra College (now La Sierra University) 1957M.S. Loma Linda University 1978Dr.PH. Loma Linda University 1979

P. William Dysinger Excellence in Teaching Award, Loma Linda University School of Public Health 2014

Alumni of the Year, Loma Linda University School of Public Health 2005 Dean's Award, Loma Linda University 1979

Member, Delta Omega National Public Heakth HonorSociety, Kappa Chapter 1979 Ella Hasso Haddad was born in Baghdad, Iraq to a Seventhday Adventist family whose roots were from the plains of Mosul, or biblical Ninevah - an ethnically and religiously diverse ancient land with a rich history and culture. With her husband Edmond, she returned to Beirut, Lebanon where they taught at Middle East College (now University) from 1966 to 1975. Ella and her family returned to the United States in 1975, giving her the opportunity to pursue a doctoral degree. After returning to Lebanon for a few years, the family came to Loma Linda in 1989, where Dr. Hadded joined the faculty of the Department of Nutrition in the School of Public Health —a position she has held since then.

Dr. Haddad has taught many academic courses in the School's nutrition program, as well as providing lectures for the Schools of Medicine and Dentistry. Her contributions have gone well beyond the classroom, with involvement in surrounding communities supporting multiple projects as practicum sites for nutrition students. She was instrumental in preparing the self-study documents for accreditation of the SPH nutrition programs in dietetic education in 1997 and 2002, and partnered with the School of Allied Health Professions (SAHP) in preparing the self-study documents for the joint nutrition accreditation in 2007.

In addition to her many teaching and administrative reponsibilities, Dr Haddad has been active in the research of vegetarian nutrition and clinical feeding trials. She also supervised the laboratory work for sub-studies of the Adventist Health Study-2, a cohort study of 96,000 Seventh-day Adventists.

Ella strongly believes that nutrition education is the best way to help people live healthier lives and hopes she has contributed towards that goal, both in the Middle East and in the US. As a colleague remarked: "Dr. Haddad presents a striking contrast of being a well-rounded person as well as a 'renaissance' professional. She embodies the virtues of Christian professionalism, while being an unpretentious, but effective, faculty member."

For her significant contributions to the field of nutrition education and research, and her exemplary servant-leader commitment to academic excellence and the achievement of the mission of this institution, Loma Linda University Health honors Dr. Ella Hasso Haddad with the 2020-2021 DISTINGUISHED ACADEMIC AWARD.

Sease, joined the staff of Loma Linda University Drayson Center in 1996, less than two years after the center opened. His task was to develop and grow the 100,000-sf facility and maximize its use throughout the entire day. He saw an opportunity to invite the senior community to share in the benefits of recreation and wellness, as well as help support programs and operations. In 2000, following the untimely passing of the Center's director, Richard Hamilton, Mr. Sease was chosen to lead the Drayson Center. He has brought his passion for integration of community members without major impact on student, faculty, and employee members together with his vision for innovative programs, activities, and services.

Mr. Sease began his career working with inner-city delinquent youth, co-sponsored by the state and YMCA, giving them experiences outside their neighborhoods to open their eyes to the world. He later joined Glendale Adventist Medical Center as a social worker on the rehabilitation unit.

Concurrently, from 1972 to 1981, Mr. Sease co-owned and managed Sease Employment Agency, a family-run business. In 1981 he joined the White Memorial Medical Center as a recruiter. During his years at WMMC, he became marketing representative for their 22-bed Rehabilitation Center and established their Student Health Services, an innovative program providing health care to four community colleges in greater Los Angeles.

The one constant in life, he believes, is change. In light of that, Mr. Sease expects his administrative team and staff to be innovative, flexible, and adaptable to all campus needs—from major events such as graduations and homecomings, to everyday operations of a full-service recreational and wellness facility. Mr. Sease has built a strong team at Drayson Center, emphasizing customer service, excellence, and innovation, as well as keeping a well-maintained facility. He embodies servant leadership and encourages a servant's heart among his staff.

In recognition of nearly a quarter century of outstanding leadership and service and his commitment to health and wellness that aligns with this institution's mission, Loma Linda University Health is pleased to present Mr. Donald Sease with the 2020-2021 DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD.

Jere and Marian Chrispens-Distinguished Humanitarian Award (2020-2021)

Jere Chrispens B.A University of California, Los Angeles 1964 M.A. University of California, Los Angeles 1966

Marian Chrispens B.S La Sierra University 1967 A.S. San Bernardino Valley College 1978 Jere and Marian Chrispens have dedicated their lives to service – to family, church and community. Their connection with Loma Linda University Health goes back more than 100 years, when Mrs. Chrispens' grandparents attended the Medical Missionary Course here from 1918-1921. During that time, Marian's mother was born at the Loma Linda Sanitarium.

After graduating from UCLA in 1966 with a master's in mathematics and a secondary teaching credential, Mr. Chrispens began a lifelong affiliation with Loma Linda University Health when he became manager of the biomedical computing research facility. While he has held a faculty position at Loma Linda University for the past 40 years, Mr. Chrispens helped start a healthcare software business in 1978, and the remainder of his professional career was involved in private business until his retirement in 2003. He has extended his service to Loma Linda University Health as a member of its Board of Trustees since 2006.

Mrs. Chrispens earned her bachelor's degree in home economics from La Sierra University in 1967, and an associate's in nursing from San Bernardino Valley College in 1978. Between raising five children, all of whom were born at Loma Linda University Medical Center, she taught adult education clothing construction classes in the Colton Unified School District and worked as a nurse at Redlands Community Hospital. Her life has also been filled with volunteer roles at Mesa Grande Academy and caring for nine grandchildren in their preschool years while their parents worked. Since 2000, she has been engaged with Loma Linda University Children's Hospital Foundation as a member of its Big Hearts for Little Hearts Loma Linda Guild.

In addition to serving locally, the Chrispens have volunteered their time and expertise to help disadvantaged hospitals in South America, the Caribbean, Afghanistan, and Malawi to improve their level of patient care. Since 2017, Mr. Chrispens has been CEO of Haiti Adventist Hospital, and Mrs. Chrispens has shared her talents in renovating the hospital's kitchen and coordinating uniforms for non-medical staff.

When Loma Linda University Health was planning for Vision 2020 – The Campaign for a Whole Tomorrow - Jere and Marian Chrispens accepted the invitation to serve as co-chairs of the $366 million philanthropic effort. During the campaign's eight years, which ended in 2020, more than $476 million was raised, including over $220 million toward construction of the new hospital towers on the Dennis and Carol Troesh Medical Campus.

In recognition of exemplary service and philanthropy, and for inspiring and challenging others to model our mission, Loma Linda University Health honors Jere and Marian Chrispens with the 2020-2021 DISTINGUISHED HUMANITARIAN AWARD.

William J. Pearce—Distinguished Investigator Award (2020-2021)

Professor, Basic Sciences, School of Medicine, Loma Linda University Associate Director, Center for Perinatal Biology, School of Medicine, Loma Linda University

B.S. University of Michigan 1974 Ph.D. University of Michigan 1979

Section Head, Faculty of 1000: Pharmacology & Drug Discovery Member, Board of Directors, International Society for Cerebral Blood Flow and Metabolism Member, Board of Editors, American Journal of Physiology: Cell Physiology Member, Board of Editors, American Journal of Physiology: Heart and Circulatory Physiology Member, Board of Editors, Journal of Cerebral

Blood Flow and Metabolism

William Pearce began at Loma Linda University in 1983, when he first joined the faculty in the School of Medicine as an assistant research professor in physiology. His research interests and contributions ultimately brought him to the School's Center for Perinatal Biology, where Dr. Pearce currently serves as associate director.

His interest in the direct and acute effects of hypoxia began as an extension of his post-doctoral study, when he "made the fortuitous discovery that the extra-cranial margin of the veins draining cerebral venous effluent in the dog were highly muscularized and heavily innervated by adrenergic nerves." His findings helped explain and solve a major controversy at the time, and were first published in 1981. This recognition led to a number of young scientist awards as well as opportunities to speak internationally.

Dr. Pearce has presented his research at scientific conferences around the world, and has been a lecturer or visiting professor at international universities, as well as in the United States. Published numerous times in a variety of peer-reviewed scientific journals over the past 33 years, he continues to serve in advisory and editorial roles for some of these same journals. Recent articles submitted include several relating to hypoxia and plasticity regarding the circulatory system of both infants and adults.

Dr. Pearce's research has contributed significantly to the internationally known and respected LLU Center for Perinatal Biology. Some of the techniques and findings developed in his laboratory have never been duplicated anywhere in the world.

Because of his contributions as a leading researcher in his field, his role in education and a mentor in the basic sciences, and his commitment to the mission, "Continuing the Teaching and Healing Ministry of Jesus Christ," Loma Linda University recognizes Dr. William J. Pearce with the 2020-2021 DISTINGUISHED INVESTIGATOR AWARD. The Program, The School Honorees, and The Speaker

Nipher Malika—President's Award (SBH)

B.S. Northwest Nazarene University 2011 M.P.H. Loma Linda University PH 2015

President's Award 2021

Nipher Malika is receiving her doctoral degree in Social Policy and Social Research from the Loma Linda School of Behavioral Health. In conjunction with her public health training, she identifies as a social epidemiologist with research interests in health disparities. She seeks to explore how immigrants, minorities, and low-income families and communities with chronic diseases navigate social systems and access support.

Her doctoral dissertation research challenged the monolithic views about the Black diaspora in the U.S. by assessing differences in health profiles and psychosocial factors in prostate cancer screening between African immigrants, Caribbean immigrants and African Americans. Nipher is trained in qualitative and quantitative research methodologies and the synergistic utilization of both, for a more comprehensive assessment. Her past work has focused on health challenges among low-income and minority population in the U.S. but also in Peru, Argentina, India and Kenya. Her recent collaborations include research on the barriers of COVID-19 vaccinations in local low-income minority populations, how varying environmental conditions in slum populations affect hygiene adoption, and the impact of sleep disparities on mental health among low-income students.

In addition to her academic and professional pursuits, Nipher has been active in local and global service. As a student, she served as the student Vice President of International Missions, and in this role, she sought to further expand the culture of service and international missions on our LLU campus. Locally, she volunteers by running a weekly educational program helping homeless, runaway, and at-risk youth attain their GED and pursue higher education. She has also worked with Community Academic Partners in Service (CAPS) to provide services to San Bernardino County residents. Globally, she enjoys travelling with Students for International Mission Service (SIMS) to many countries, providing medical care, public health education and community-based service.

In recognition of her academic excellence, her unwavering commitment to service, and human qualities that promote the goals of her chosen profession, and support the mission of this institution, the School of Behavioral Health is pleased to present Dr. Nipher Malika with the 2021 PRESIDENT'S AWARD.

Vicki D. Nelson—President's Award (SR)

B.A. Atlantic Union College 2007 M.A. Loma Linda University SR 2012

President's Award 2021

Having begun her career as a nurse in both adult and pediatric critical care settings, Vicki's professional experience brings a unique perspective to the relationship between religion and health. Her interest in teaching was awakened as she raised her children, and this led her to pursue a bachelor's degree in the liberal arts, with an emphasis in science and religion. She developed a deep interest in wholeness teaching religion at the secondary level, while also serving as a school counselor and this led her to pursue graduate studies in clinical ministry and chaplaincy, ultimately matriculating into a doctoral program in Religion and Health with a certification in Lifestyle Intervention, which she is graduating from this year.

Vicki's passion for wholeness is evident in the course she teaches at the graduate level for the School of Religion at Loma Linda University, classes such as Whole Person Care, and Wholeness and Health, and, at Andrews University, where she also teaches as an adjunct professor, Fundamentals of Spirituality and Ethics in Healthcare. The importance of wholeness has been magnified by the current state of our COVID-19-world, and post-pandemic unrest, uncertainty, and fear, causing her to develop a strong focus on self-care, with a desire to incorporate a holistic, Christ-centered approach. Her goal is to promote a wholeness-centered self-care plan that touches every aspect of peoples' lives with God at the center. This kind of approach to spiritual health and well-being, Vicki believes, can be offered to those holding diverse worldviews from the "ardently religious to the atheistic rationalist."

In recognition of her academic performance, her commitment to wholeness, and her passion for promoting this institution's motto – "To Make Man Whole," the School of Religion is pleased to present Vicki D. Nelson with the 2021 PRESIDENT'S AWARD.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN

The Good Samaritan, the four-figure sculpture located on the mall of Loma Linda University, is a representation of the parable told by Jesus in Luke 10:30–37. It was sculpted by Alan Collins and dedicated and unveiled at Loma Linda University on May 31, 1981. The sculpture speaks eloquently of the compassionate practice of the healing arts and of our mission—"to continue the teaching and healing ministry of Jesus Christ"—and of the motto of this health sciences University—"To make man whole."

The Good Samaritan has been incorporated into the diploma as a screened background since 2006.
