

MISSION-FOCUSED LEARNING OUTCOME – Wholeness
Loved by God, to Grow in Health, and to Live with Purpose Within Community.

One of Loma Linda University’s Mission-Focused Learning Outcomes is wholeness. The wholeness rubric assessment is focused on the application and documentation of the philosophy of wholeness in one’s personal and professional life. The University defines wholeness as “loved by God,” “growing in health,” and “living with purpose in community.” The wholeness rubric is a self-assessment by the student. Participants are asked to reflect on each of the elements in the left column and to be to be honest with themselves in answering which element in the row best explains their understanding of where they are today. In assessing this rubric, results are compiled across the university and compared to the summative value.

During the final year of a student’s program, they will be asked to reassess again (summative result). The reassessment provides an opportunity to reflect on students’ LLU experiences and personal level of wholeness. Students will also be asked what factors they felt most influenced their reassessment choices.

Criteria	4	3	2	1	Value
Loved by God (Spiritual)	I endeavor to share with others how to experience God’s love.	The love of God makes a difference in my personal or professional life.	I am aware that God loves me.	I have not experienced what it means to be loved by God.
Growing in Health (Personal & Professional)	I endeavor to share evidence-based health principles with others to improve health.	I incorporate evidence-based health principles in my personal or professional life.	I am aware of evidence-based health principles.	I am not familiar with any evidence-based health principles.
Living with Purpose in Community (Social)	I participate in leadership efforts in building or organizing community service programs or opportunities.	I participate in community service programs or opportunities.	I am aware of community service programs or opportunities.	I am not aware of any community service programs or opportunities.

(Optional) Personal Strengths/Areas for Personal Growth: _____